

Industrial Visit

Mechanical Engineering

Semester-III

Visits offer students a unique opportunity to gain firsthand knowledge of various industries and the intricate processes involved in functions like Designing, Manufacturing, Quality Control, and Testing. These functions are the backbone of industrial operations, and understanding them is essential for aspiring engineers. By participating in technical visits, students can go beyond the confines of traditional classroom lectures and acquire practical insights that are invaluable for their future careers.

